Influencing today … shaping tomorrow
Hi Joe,

Thank you for your email below regarding the attached footpath construction information. You will find the type of paving included on the attachment in bold red wording but please note that paving is a generalised term that infers to the type of surface treatment that something receives i.e. a footpath could be concrete, hotmix, paved (pavers), spray sealed etc.

The other paving treatment I have noticed is that Peake Terrace is partly paved and then it was crush rocked and sealed with line marking to define the pedestrian walkway along with a yellow line along the kerb which means no parking and ensures clearway space and use. Parking at the former boat business has been inset to allow a straight footpath and it also misses the large stormwater headwall, previous to this work it appears to have been just dirt.

Coombe Terrace is correct and as per your videos that you provided you should have been travelling in the opposite direction looking at your ‘from’s and to’s’ to make sure the paving was on the southern side which in this case is the right footpath.

From the attached table it does appear that not as much hotmix was done on Strangman Road but it has been stopped at the Waikerie Cemetery which I assume was the desired destination and to in my opinion would probably serve no purpose if it were to be extended any further along.

I hope what I have provided make sense and answers your query.
